It is the Directors' current intention that, in the absence of unforeseen circumstances, the Fund will declare dividends totalling not less than 4 pence per Ord share in respect of the initial period to 30 June 2018. Full details of the Fund's Dividend Policy are available at www.aberforth.co.uk.

Investment style: Value

Aberforth are value investors who buy shares in companies that they calculate to be selling below their intrinsic value. This is determined through detailed financial and industrial analysis, combined with a valuation approach that focuses on both stockmarket and corporate worth.

Investment commentary

July was a good month for small companies. In a busy period for results, businesses exposed to the domestic economy have generally surprised positively; this benefited the more domestically oriented NSCI (XIC). Allied to that, lower exposure to the dollar benefited the small and mid cap indices compared to the more internationally exposed FTSE 100. The FTSE All-Share Index generated a total return of 1.2% over the month and the NSCI (XIC) returned 2.9%. The Fund produced a total assets total return of 4.0%. This represents the ungeared portfolio return excluding the impact of the June transition from Aberforth Geared Income Trust and launch costs. In what was a good month for small cap share prices, the trust benefited from having a fully invested portfolio at launch.

Style factors mattered little over the month but at the stock level there were several notable winners. These included PR company Huntsworth and neighbourhood retailer McColl's, both of which reported strong interim results. Games Workshop, which manufactures miniature wargames, was another stand-out performer on results. Housebuilding and construction group Galliford Try reassured the market with a solid year end trading update. Lloyd's insurer Novae responded positively to the news of a bid from Bermuda-based AXIS Capital. There was a notable revival in M&A in the small company universe over the month, with a total of four new deals announced in July, including Novae.

The only notable detractor from returns was Eurocell; the share price was affected by weak news flow from a competitor in the windows and doors market.

Risk warnings

➤ Capital may be at risk as the value of investments may go down as well as up and is not guaranteed; therefore investors may not get back the amount originally invested. Past performance is not a guide to future performance, or a reliable indicator of future results or performance.

➤ Investments in shares of smaller companies are generally considered to carry a higher degree of risk as the market for their shares may be less liquid than that for shares of larger companies, making shares of smaller companies more difficult to buy and sell.

➤ The performance of shares of smaller companies may be more volatile than the shares of larger companies over short time periods; therefore investors should regard such investments as long term.

➤ There can be no guarantee that the investment objective of the Fund will be achieved or provide the dividends and returns sought by the Fund.

➤ An investment trust is a public limited company, the shares of which are traded on the Main Market of the London Stock Exchange. Accordingly, the ability of shareholders to sell their shares will be dependent on the market price of the shares. The shares may trade at a discount or premium to their net asset value.

➤ Investment trusts may borrow money in order to make further investments. This is known as gearing. The effect of gearing can enhance returns to shareholders in rising markets but will have the opposite effect on returns in falling markets.

➤ The Fund's Ordinary shares (Ords) are geared by the Zero Dividend Preference shares (ZDPs) and rank for repayment of capital after the ZDPs and any creditors of the Fund. A positive net asset value for the Ords will be dependent upon the Fund's assets being sufficient to meet the prior capital entitlements of the holders of the ZDPs. The Ords should therefore be regarded as carrying above average risk. The ZDPs are not a protected or guaranteed investment. In particular, should the Fund be wound up prior to its planned winding up date, holders of ZDPs would only receive their accrued capital entitlement to the date of winding up - which would be less than the final anticipated capital entitlement of the ZDPs.
