Monthly investment commentary: July

Following a challenging first half of the year, stockmarkets pondered a softer economic landing and staged a recovery in July. In the UK, the FTSE All-Share's gain of 4.4% lagged the return of smaller companies. The 6.0% gain in the NSCI (XIC) was led by its mid-cap constituents. In comparison, the Fund's 4.4% return was held back by its greater exposure to "smaller small" companies.

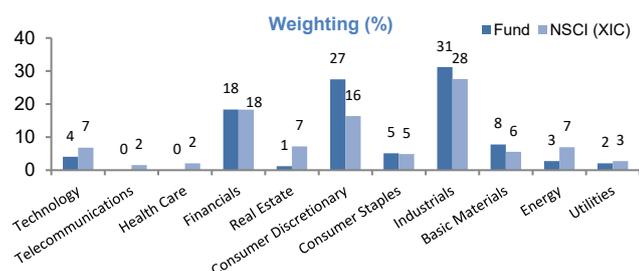

Companies that contributed positively included Morgan Advanced Materials. The carbon & ceramics engineer announced a healthy dividend increase, which recognised a full order book and its strong balance sheet. Senior, an aerospace and automotive engineer, was strong as civil aerospace manufacturers confirmed plans to grow production rates. International Personal Finance reported good results that saw the home credit provider increase its interim dividend. Finally, Wilmington published strong results, which revealed strong trading as face-to-face events ran as scheduled and demand grew for its risk and compliance subscription products.

Among the negative contributors was motor insurer Sabre. It announced plans to protect its capital base through a dividend cut amid an environment of higher claims inflation. Elsewhere, Rathbones, the Fund's remaining wealth manager holding, saw downgrades as falling markets impacted its assets under management. Separately, Go-Ahead shares fell as the prospect of a rival bid for the company fell away. In June, the company recommended an offer from a consortium led by a Canadian pension fund at a price that is below Aberforth's view of value. It remains the case that Aberforth does not support approaches if fair value cannot be realised.

Sector exposure

Size exposure

Gearing

The Fund's Ord shares are geared by the capital entitlement of the ZDP shares which will rise continuously until the planned winding up date of 1 July 2024. The net gearing figure shown in the Key Fund information section is the percentage by which the total value of investments exceeds the total net assets.

Hurdle rates & redemption yields

The Fund's latest hurdle rates and redemption yields are available from the ZDP Analytics section of the AIC website at www.theaic.co.uk.

Data sources & calculations

All data supplied by Aberforth, except NSCI (XIC) data (from Numis/Paul Marsh and Elroy Dimson – London Business School) and FTSE data (from FTSE International Limited).

Performance returns are total returns after all expenses and assume reinvestment of dividends. Yield is based on the Fund's trailing 12 months' dividends (excluding Specials). Active share is a measure of how the Fund's portfolio differs from the NSCI (XIC). Small companies are represented by the NSCI (XIC). Large companies are represented by the FTAS.

Risk warnings

Investments in shares of smaller companies are generally considered to carry a higher degree of risk as the market for their shares may be less liquid than that for shares of larger companies, making shares of smaller companies more difficult to buy and sell.

The performance of shares of smaller companies may be more volatile than the shares of larger companies over short time periods; therefore investors should regard such investments as long term.

There can be no guarantee that the investment objective of the Fund will be achieved or provide the dividends and returns sought by the Fund.

An investment in the Fund is only suitable for investors who are capable of evaluating the merits and risks of such an investment and who have sufficient resources to be able to bear any losses which may arise from such an investment (which may be equal to the whole amount invested). Such an investment should be regarded as long term in nature and complementary to existing investments in a range of other financial assets and should not form a major part of an investment portfolio.

An investment trust is a public limited company, the shares of which are traded on the Main Market of the London Stock Exchange. Accordingly, the ability of shareholders to sell their shares will be dependent on the market price of the shares. The shares may trade at a discount or premium to their net asset value.

Investment trusts may borrow money in order to make further investments. This is known as gearing. The effect of gearing can enhance returns to shareholders in rising markets but will have the opposite effect on returns in falling markets.

The Fund's Ordinary shares (Ords) are geared by the Zero Dividend Preference shares (ZDPs) and rank for repayment of capital after the ZDPs and any creditors of the Fund. A positive net asset value for the Ords will be dependent upon the Fund's assets being sufficient to meet the prior capital entitlements of the holders of the ZDPs. The Ords should therefore be regarded as carrying above average risk. The ZDPs are not a protected or guaranteed investment. In particular, should the Fund be wound up prior to its planned winding up date, holders of ZDPs would only receive their accrued capital entitlement to the date of winding up - which would be less than the final anticipated capital entitlement of the ZDPs.
