Monthly investment commentary: July

UK equities outperformed global peer indices in July. The FTSE All-share rose 4.0%, with large caps leading the way. This was thanks in part to a stronger dollar boosting translated overseas earnings of the UK's biggest companies. Inbound and outbound M&A activity in the UK smaller companies space remained a theme through the month. Meanwhile, the value style was a headwind to relative performance. The DNSCI (XIC) investment universe was up 1.5% and the Fund's portfolio return up 0.8%.

Leading the Fund's winners was Jupiter Fund Management, which announced the acquisition of CCLA Investment Management, an asset manager focussed on serving non-profit organisations. Also announcing an acquisition was Card Factory, which is buying online personalised card business Funky Pigeon from WH Smith. This was well received by investors. Another leading performer was International Personal Finance, which disclosed it was subject to a possible offer for the business from a US-based specialty finance group. Bakkavor rose further thanks to the increased look-through valuation of Greencore, which has agreed to acquire the group with a mix of cash and shares. Interim results for Rathbones at the month end capped off a strong period of share price performance.

Laggards for the Fund included Paypoint, which gave back some strong recent share price performance on no company-specific news. Slower demand in its industrial end markets weighed on Vesuvius, which lowered profit expectations in a trading update. Conduit also released a disappointing update as it adapts its business in the reinsurance market under new senior management. STV lowered profit guidance for the full year on weakness in both the advertising and studio commissioning markets. Finally, MONY Group fell after results confirmed guidance for the full year but noted likely slower growth in its key Insurance division in the second half.

Gearing

The Fund's Ord shares are geared by the capital entitlement of the ZDP shares which will rise continuously until the planned winding up date of 30 June 2031. The net gearing figure shown in the Key Fund information section is the percentage by which the total value of investments exceeds the total net assets.

Hurdle rates & redemption yields

The Fund's latest hurdle rates and redemption yields are available from the ZDP Analytics section of the AIC website at <https://www.theaic.co.uk/aic/find-compare-investment-companies/zdp-analytics>.

Data sources & calculations

All data supplied by Aberforth, except DNSCI (XIC) data (from Deutsche Numis/Paul Marsh and Elroy Dimson – London Business School) and FTSE data (from FTSE International Limited).

Performance returns are total returns after all expenses and assume reinvestment of dividends. Yield is based on the Fund's trailing 12 months' dividends (excluding Specials). Small companies are represented by the DNSCI (XIC). Large companies are represented by the FTAS.

Risk warnings

Capital may be at risk as the value of investments may go down as well as up and is not guaranteed; therefore investors may not get back the amount originally invested. Past performance is not a guide to future performance, nor a reliable indicator of future results or performance.

Investments in shares of smaller companies are generally considered to carry a higher degree of risk as the market for their shares may be less liquid than that for shares of larger companies, making shares of smaller companies more difficult to buy and sell.

The performance of shares of smaller companies may be more volatile than the shares of larger companies over short time periods; therefore investors should regard such investments as long term.

There can be no guarantee that the investment objective of the Fund will be achieved or provide the dividends and returns sought by the Fund.

An investment in the Fund is only suitable for investors who are capable of evaluating the merits and risks of such an investment and who have sufficient resources to be able to bear any losses which may arise from such an investment (which may be equal to the whole amount invested). Such an investment should be regarded as long term in nature and complementary to existing investments in a range of other financial assets and should not form a major part of an investment portfolio.

An investment trust is a public limited company, the shares of which are traded on the Main Market of the London Stock Exchange. Accordingly, the ability of shareholders to sell their shares will be dependent on the market price of the shares. The shares may trade at a discount or premium to their net asset value.

Investment trusts may borrow money in order to make further investments. This is known as gearing. The effect of gearing can enhance returns to shareholders in rising markets but will have the opposite effect on returns in falling markets.

The Fund's Ordinary shares (Ords) are geared by the Zero Dividend Preference shares (ZDPs) and rank for repayment of capital after the ZDPs and any creditors of the Fund. A positive net asset value for the Ords will be dependent upon the Fund's assets being sufficient to meet the prior capital entitlements of the holders of the ZDPs. The Ords should therefore be regarded as carrying above average risk. The ZDPs are not a protected or guaranteed investment. In particular, should the Fund be wound up prior to its planned winding up date, holders of ZDPs would only receive their accrued capital entitlement to the date of winding up - which would be less than the final anticipated capital entitlement of the ZDPs.
